

How well did this physical setting (tables spread out in a large room) support our goals of providing a safe, comfortable environment for this dialogue?

How would you say the Side-by-Side discussion with your dialogue partner affected the overall quality of the dialogue?

How much more confident are you that you could have a constructive conversation with someone of the opposite political opinion after today?

If this program is offered again (perhaps with changes suggested by this audience) would you recommend it to a friend?
